Scrub'n Glove

In a controlled study done by Greiner J., Diezel W., "Inflammation- inhibiting effects of magnesium ions in contact eczema reactions," (German), Hautarzt 41(11):602-5, 1990 Nov., they explained the influence of magnesium on inflammation in allergic contact dermatitis induced by 1-chloro-2, 4-dinitrobenzene (DNCB).

It was determined that water containing high concentration of magnesium ions (e.g. Dead Sea water) is effective in the treatment of inflammatory skin diseases. Animals challenged with 0.125% DNCB in the presence of magnesium chloride (28% and 14%) demonstrated significantly less pronounced contact dermatitis than did animals challenged with DNCB alone. Again in patients known to be allergic to nickel, magnesium chloride (Dead Sea water) but not sodium chloride, suppressed nickel sulphate-induced contact dermatitis.<sup>4</sup>

In another study conducted by Gruner S., Zwirner A., Bonnen H., Sonnichsen N., "Effects of treatment with salt from the Dead Sea (Tomesa therapy) on epidermal Langerhans cells - a clinical study," Zeitschrift fur Hautkrankheiten, 65(12):1146-51, 1990 Dec., they showed findings to demonstrate that the antipsoriatic activity of Tomesa therapy is not only due to physical effects, but may also be the result of definable pharmacological actions of the salt of the Dead Sea on skin cells.<sup>5</sup>
